Our Policies on Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

Concentrix does not tolerate slavery or human trafficking anywhere in our organisation or in our supply chain.

In 2022, we adopted a new Human Rights policy that brought together our standards in relation to human rights in one document. Our views on human rights are well known within our company through our principles outlined in our Code of Ethical Business Conduct (COEBC) and internal human resources and employment policies. We follow local laws pertaining to employment, payment of wages and employee benefits in each place we do business, and we require that our Suppliers do the same for their employees. We are committed to the tenets of international human rights policies in our workforce and our supply chain.

Our opposition to modern slavery and human trafficking is clearly stated in our COEBC which can be found on our website Legal Information – Concentrix.

Our COEBC applies to all employees, officers and directors of Concentrix Corporation and its divisions, subsidiaries and affiliates. Staff and representatives acting on behalf of our company are expected to comply with the COEBC and all applicable laws, rules and regulations. If a local law conflicts with our COEBC, we follow the law. If a local business practice conflicts with our COEBC, we follow our COEBC.

Our opposition to modern slavery and human trafficking is also clearly stated in our Supplier Code of Conduct, also available on our website Supplier Code of Conduct – Concentrix.

These codes embed our commitment to acting ethically and with integrity in all our business relationships and to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to eliminate, as far as possible, the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking taking place anywhere in our own organisation and our supply chains.

Processes for Detecting and Avoiding Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

As the COVID-19 pandemic continued into 2021, Concentrix continued to protect the employment of staff who were not able to work from home and were unable to attend the office due to the government restrictions in geographies where furlough or other government support was not in place. It was important that no Concentrix employees were put into a vulnerable situation which may increase their exposure and risks of modern slavery. During 2022 and moving into 2023, we have transitioned to a hybrid workplace model with a mix of in-office and remote working.

As a provider of business to business customer experience and technology services, the skill level of employees we typically engage alleviates the risk of modern slavery due to the qualifications and experience we require and the market competitive rates of pay. While we are committed to ensure that we abide by applicable laws everywhere we do business including applicable employment laws, our robust recruitment processes involving multiple controls and checks, including verification of all legally applicable documents including identity documents, ensures that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking taking place within our direct organisation.

Supplier Adherence to our Supplier Code of Conduct

As part of our efforts to identify and mitigate the risk of human slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains, we have in place our Supplier Code of Conduct. Our Supplier Code of Conduct stipulates that workers shall be engaged in accordance with applicable law, shall be free to leave upon reasonable notice and that suppliers shall not employ any person who is below the minimum legal age for employment. We seek all necessary assurances of compliance with the Modern Slavery Act, 2018. The Supplier Code has had an extensive revision and update, along with the introduction of greater Supplier Governance. The Governance Framework enables and drives improved visibility of our Suppliers commitment to, and compliance with the Concentrix Supplier Code of Conduct.

Our Supplier Governance Framework, enables increased vigilance of our suppliers and supply chain; including risk based engagement with a selection of suppliers being required to complete a questionnaire and our right to request supporting evidence. The risk basis includes factors such as annual spend, product or service type (where suppliers may rely on seasonal, lower paid and lower skilled workers) and geographical areas (identified as high risk for modern slavery or human trafficking). In instances where we may identify unmitigated risks, we will work with our existing suppliers to implement corrective actions; remind them of our values and ethical standards and reiterate the expectations we have when working with them. In the event that a supplier is unwilling or unable to meet the requirements of the Supplier Code of Conduct, we will terminate our business relationship with them.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our business and in our supply chains, for all Concentrix staff, our zero-tolerance position on modern slavery is contained in our annual mandatory COEBC training, which addresses compliance with various regulations. Also included in the COEBC are details of the multiple whistleblowing channels that are available, we encourage our staff and other stakeholders to report any suspected violation of our COEBC, or any law or regulation and will not retaliate against anyone who makes a report in good faith.

Training completion and affirmation to compliance with the COEBC for every individual staff member is monitored and 100% completion is one of our global Environment, Social and Governance (ESG) goals. It is also included in our published sustainability report Investor Relations | Concentrix Corporation.

Additional mandatory online training is provided to employees in procurement roles and real estate roles to assist them in recognising potential signs of modern slavery, to support them as they proactively interact with and evaluate suppliers on behalf of Concentrix businesses.

We ask our suppliers to provide similar training to their staff and suppliers on a regular basis. We encourage suppliers to have an anonymous complaint mechanism in place. We also encourage our suppliers or their staff to reach out to us if they have any complaints to be redressed or brought to our attention by using our anonymous whistleblowing portal IntegrityCounts. Our improved governance year on year will strengthen our oversight in these areas.
